“ I'm very sorry to hear about the passing of my friend, Gregg. In 2009 Gregg and I met in the gym of the Asian Development Bank in Manila, Philippines. He was in the gym everyday, Monday to Friday, and we became friends talking about working out, sports, family, and other things. When he moved back to the US Gregg and I stayed in regular contact by email. Usually we gradually fall out of contact with friends after being separated by time and space, but Gregg was one of the exceptions. I always looked forward to getting his emails and sharing our views on life. He was a really good guy, and I will miss him.
