Allan's love for Mackinac Island deepened with every passing year. Being a year round resident he experienced the beauty of all the seasons. He loved the palpable excitement of another approaching summer season- of preparing the shops and restaurants for the visitors- and his after work bike rides to British Landing to enjoy the birds and water and silence. But he also regaled in the quiet serenity of the winter island. the ice bridge, snowmobile trips into town to make the rounds of the Library, the post office and Douds Store.

Allan is survived by his partner of 21 years, Patty Prendergast, his mother, Lillian in Maine, and sister, Mary Jane and David. He was preceded in death by his father, Ernest, and a brother, James.
